Our City Comment & Discussion

by THOMAS D. WATSON

Why Not Make the Back Yard a Playground?

THE first week of vacation has demonstrated to most parents the desirability of providing the means on their own premises for their children to play at home.

In a folder edited by the Community Service of Glendale a model home playground is submitted. This folder also makes suggestions as to the best equipment with directions as to how to make it.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the importance of this matter. Most children are full of excess energy which must have expression in some form. If directed in the right channel all is well, but this energy must be directed, if not the chances are in favor of the wrong kind of activity.

City and school authorities should do everything possible to provide the means for playground activity during the vacation. If they do this it does not in any way relieve the parents' responsibility. It takes very little money or energy to provide a sand box for the little tots, or swings, rings or bars for the more mature. The returns in healthy minds and bodies will be large.

In Glendale the city and school authorities in co-operation with the Community Service have arranged for the entire vacation period to be full of activity.

Three playgrounds will be maintained during the vacation. July 2, two of them will be at grade school athletic fields and the other at the old high school grounds. All playgrounds will be supervised at all times by an accredited physical director, who will direct and assist in the activities.

THE city authorities have already provided sufficient lights on the high school grounds to enable the play to continue during the evening and this field will be kept open until nine on all nights except Saturday. The tennis courts are also going to be lighted so that they may be used during the evening. Probably the greatest activity during the evenings will be by commercial organizations, such as teams of playground baseball and an inter-city league, taking in the cities of Burbank, Eagle Rock and Glendale could be promoted.

Citizens should show their appreciation of this movement by co-operating to the fullest degree.

THE Burbank city council is to be commended on its action in tabling proposed ordinance No. 203.

This ordinance was drawn for the purpose of prohibiting the establishment of cemeteries in the city limits.

Inasmuch as a cemetery is a necessary institution, no city should shift the responsibility of caring for its dead on other communities.

There is little doubt but that even if the ordinance was passed the courts would hold it illegal. By tabling the ordinance, much useless legal squabbling has been averted.

EAGLE ROCK citizens will hardly recognize their own city streets after 98 of her streets are re-named.

On account of duplication of names of streets in Los Angeles and Eagle Rock, it was found necessary, according to postoffice rulings to make the change.

THE Los Angeles officials have agreed to give preference to names suggested by the people, so that all Eagle Rock citizens can have a part in the christening.

CALIFORNIA JUNE MOON JOINS FETE

Music Section Party Is Picture of Daylight at Rattray Home

500 ATTEND EVENT

Luna Vies With Electric Lights in Japanese Lanterns

The magic of a California moon in June lent enchantment to the attractive gardens of the W. S. Rattray residence on Kenneth road, Glendale, Wednesday night when a garden party was given by the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, of which Mrs. Warren Roberts is curator. It was declared by the more than 500 people present to be the prettiest outdoor social event of this kind ever given in Glendale.

Gay colored Japanese lanterns, covering electric lights, were strung all through the gardens. Rays of spot lights were centered on the upper terrace of the lawn where dancers from the Pearl Kellor studio presented a program of unusual merit. The opening number, "A Garden Dance," with beautiful costumes worn by the six talented young Glendale dancers, was most appropriate for the occasion. The young ladies were Dorothy Dutton, Shirley and Glenn Hitchcock, Helen Orr, Leona and Evelyn Hunt. The clever Turner sisters were next on the program in a "Ballet Dance." This was followed by an interpretative "Bow and Arrow Dance" by Gould Moore. Little Eleanor Marek danced "El Capitán." A very pretty number was the "California Poppy Girl," song and dance by Leona and Evelyn Hunt in poppy costumes, with chorus, consisting of Dorothy Dutton, Julia Pelley, Grace Hoffman, Naida Taylor, Gertrude Muske and Helen Orr in sports costumes. Six-year-old Ann Elizabeth Wilkinson displayed unusual ability for so young a child in her interpretation of an "Autumn Dance." The "Spirit of the South Seas" was typified in the dance by Julia Pelley. The closing number of the program was a "Gypsy Dance," by Dorothy Dutton, Shirley and Glenn Hitchcock, Helen Orr and Leona and Evelyn Hunt. Mrs. Gertrude Erb accompanied at the piano.

Guests then adjourned to the house, where card tables were arranged, or to the tennis court, where music for dancing was furnished by Kelly's Shrine orchestra of eight pieces. During intermission favors of caps and noise makers were distributed. High score at bridge was made by Mrs. Ernest Parker, Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Sr. and R. A. Puffer, Jr. At "500" those making high score were Mrs. Carter and E. U. Emery. Mrs. Warren Roberts, curator of the section, was general chairman in charge of the party. Mrs. Helen I. Campbell was in charge of the card tables. Refreshments for the players were served by Mrs. Sallie Campbell Braden, assisted by Mrs. Elliott Hensel and Mrs. F. C. Card. Mrs. Bine J. Smith, assisted by Mrs. C. L. Hill, Miss Leona McClain and Mrs. Bert Woodard served punch and home baked cake to the dancers.

A fortune telling booth, presided over by a professional, was a popular attraction. This was in charge of Mrs. L. E. Gates, assisted by Marjorie and Nancy Snow. The game committee included Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, Mrs. F. H. Wallace, Mrs. Helen Sawyer, Mrs. Charles Marlene, Mrs. Calvin Whiting and Mrs. Ethna Hopkins. About 400 dancers were accommodated on the tennis court, which had been rubbed with soap chips in preparation for the dance. The members of the section are to be complimented on the success of the delightful party and are being asked for a repetition of same at some time in the near future by those who had the pleasure of attending last night.

MAY SEIZE FOREIGN SHIPS FOR BOOZE

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The increasing number of foreign ships which are docking in American waters with more liquor than permitted under the supreme court ruling, has brought government officials to the point of considering application of the provisions of the Volstead act for seizure of foreign vessels.

No announcement of the government's decision on the question has been made but officials are said to feel that the present situation cannot be tolerated much longer.

The situation has been considered at a series of conferences participated in by Secretary Hughes and other officials.

Reluctance to involve the enforcement laws ship seizure is explained as being a desire to avoid serious international disputes and to give the shipping lines a chance.

It is believed that the seizure of a ship would result in an early judicial decision on the problem.

MYSTERIOUS AUTO DRIVER SMASHES S. P. STOP SIGNAL

A motorist, whose name and number were not secured, drove his machine into the stop signal at the intersection of the Southern Pacific railway and Brand boulevard, shortly after dark Wednesday night. The signal was broken down, but notwithstanding this fact the motorist continued on his way. According to the police records this report was turned in by J. A. Reed, tower man.

BIG FIGHT MAY BE FAILURE

Clash of Dempsey and Gibbons Now Depends on Kearns

DAN TRACEY RESIGNS

Unable to Make the Grade for the Last $100,000 Payment

[By Associated Press]

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 28. Prospects of holding the Jack Dempsey-Tommy Gibbons heavyweight championship fight at Shelbyville, July 4, today revolved around Jack Kearns, manager of the world's champion, who returned to Great Falls bringing with him Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, treasurer of the American Legion committee promoting the championship fight.

The resignation of Dan Tracey, pioneer Great Falls mining man and hotel owner, from the position of manager of the business end of the fight, cast a dark shadow over the situation with the prospect of meeting the final $100,000 installment due Dempsey on his $300,000 guarantee. Tracey resigned last night without warning to the promoters of his decision. He said he had been unable to make any headway toward collecting the $17,000 subscribed by Great Falls business men to complete the second $100,000 installment.

ROTARY CLUB MOURNS LOSS OF HUNTLEY

The noon-day meeting of the Glendale Rotary club was held at the Citizens' building today. The attendance was not as good as usual. Many were away on vacations.

Among the visiting Rotarians were D. M. Brennehan of Hobart, Okla., J. R. Knapp, Los Angeles, J. Herbert Smith, vice president, in the absence of the president, George Karr, president, France Henry, the regular song leader was also absent and Owen Emery filled his place.

Out of deference to the memory of Jack Huntley, no regular program was given. Owen Emery, on request of the presiding officer, presented a resolution of sympathy, addressed to Mrs. Huntley on the loss of her husband. Several members requested leave of absence or proposed vacations.

Rue Downing, having had a birthday during the week, thanked the club for the birthday remembrance, which was a rosebud in a rose vase.

The president named the following members as committee on program for July: Al Eastman, chairman; Jim Rhodes and Presley Hatch.

ATHLETIC CLUB PLANS BIG DANCE

To Be Coming Out Party of the Newest of Associations

FOR NEW CLUBHOUSE

Membership Reaches 50, With Many Members in Sight

It might be said that the dance to be given Saturday night at Odd Fellows' hall, on West Broadway, is the coming out party for members of the Glendale Athletic association, for although this organization has been in existence for a period of three months, this is their initial public appearance, and they hope to make it a coming out party for many Glendadians.

The King Tut orchestra of six artists is to promote music that will lend an added incentive to the dance. The entertainment is given for the benefit of the club house funds. During the past, the association has been conducting its meetings at the Odd Fellows' hall, but like all other progressive organizations, the members entertain the ambition to some day own their own club house. The membership, which has reached the 50 mark, is expected to reach 100 before many days, as a campaign for new members is being conducted at the present time. Meetings are held at the Odd Fellows' hall once a week.

The main interest of the organization now centers around baseball activities. Roy Westman, captain of the team, has staged combats for the Glendale Athletic association against such teams as the Pasadena Eagles, L. A. Centrals, San Gabriel Reds, Harrower Laboratory, and the Pasadena C. C.'s, as the club's team is a member of the Southern California baseball association. Westman plans to take his team north about Friday of next week, when games will be played at San Francisco, Sacramento, and other northern cities, forming a three weeks' schedule. During that time there will be no games at Verdugo Park on Sundays where the battles have been staged at 2 o'clock.

Charles Eric is president, Gordon Kinley, secretary, and Francis Brown, treasurer of the club. George Morrison is dance chairman, and has complete charge of arrangements for the dance on Saturday night.

JAPANESE IMPERIAL FAMILY TO BE MORE DEMOCRATIC

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, June 28.—In line with the democratic tendencies of European kings and queens, the Japanese imperial family, says a dispatch from Tokyo, will in future adopt a more democratic attitude in its public activities. Much of the pomp and ceremony which accompanied the social functions of the royal house in the past will be eliminated.

Members of the imperial family plan to attend theatrical performances, concerts and similar public gatherings more frequently, and will mingle with the people with greater freedom than heretofore. Guards of honor which have invariably appeared in the past as escorts to members of the imperial household are being dispensed with, except in the case of state functions.

DOPE ADDICT IS SHOT ESCAPING FROM POLICE

Posed as Dr. H. C. Lake, He Is Caught in Pharmacy

[By Associated Press]

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—An alleged dope addict, said to have posed as Dr. H. C. Lake of 2401 West Eighth street, was shot and probably fatally injured early today by Detective Lieutenant Vance of the Wilshire division, when he made a wild break for liberty through the rear of a drug store at First and Western avenue, where he had been cornered by the police.

The wounded suspect, according to the police, has been wanted by federal officers for months. A bulletin issued to druggists recently proved the means by which he was trapped in a pharmacy at First and Western avenue by J. A. Ridgway and L. Clark, a clerk in the store who notified the police.

Lake is said to have passed bogus prescriptions for a large quantity of drugs at the pharmacy and employees were on the watch for his re-appearance. When he arrived at the store this morning, it was said, Ridgway stalled him off until the clerk phoned the police.

Upon the arrival of the officers, Lake was formally arrested and while the officers phoned headquarters, Lake made his dash for liberty through a rear door. He was shot as he attempted to turn down a side alley, the bullet going completely through his chest, according to Dr. L. F. Johnson, who gave first aid before he was taken to the receiving hospital.

EAST SIDE FOLKS WANT MORE LIGHTS

Petitions Out for Ornamental Ones on Two Streets

MANY SIGNS APPEAR

Glendale Avenue and East Broadway Lighting Sought

The Glendale "east side" people are still doing things.

The latest move along improvement lines is to prepare petitions for the installation of ornamental lights on Glendale avenue from San Fernando road to Verdugo road, and on East Broadway from the present eastern terminus of the lights to the easterly city limits.

These petitions, it is understood, will be presented to the Glendale city council at its meeting tonight. Eleven thousand feet or 50% of the property on Glendale avenue has signed for the lights, this in addition practically all of the property owners seen. C. F. Stuart, proprietor of the Glendale pharmacy, is chairman of the Glendale avenue light committee, and he personally has done practically all this work. A petition bearing about 75% of the names of the owners of property on East Broadway, it is understood, has been secured. S. C. Kinch is chairman of the Broadway lighting committee, and in circulating the petition was greatly assisted by F. W. McIntyre of East Broadway.

With the various improvements to be made soon, including the new hotel, the electrifying of the Glendale avenue line, the improvement of Glendale avenue and the installation of the ornamental electric lights on both of these streets, things are certainly beginning to "loop up" for the eastern section of the city.

The county planning commission has decided that the proposed Hyperian - Glendale boulevard bridge and viaduct, at the intersection of Glendale boulevard, the Los Angeles river and Hyperian boulevard, should be included in the first program for bridges and viaducts, connected with which the bonds of Los Angeles will vote on bonds within a short time. This recommendation has been made to the county board of supervisors. As the county planning commission was organized for the purpose of advising the county supervisors in connection with county planning matters, it is very probable that the suggestion of the commission will be adopted.

In the planning commission's report particular emphasis was placed on the value of this new connection with Hollywood as related to the proposed new Glendale Southern Pacific depot. It is claimed by the promoters of this road that when the Hyperian boulevard and the bridge-viaduct have been completed this road will carry a great deal of the traffic between Glendale and Hollywood, including bus travel. It will be shorter than the present route, it is claimed; it will also be free from dangerous crossings, and will have a minimum number of turns. The grade is not over 5%, it is declared. It will, in addition, be one mile shorter from Glendale to Hollywood than is the Los Feliz road.

Club of Rotary International, do extend to Jack's beloved wife Edith, and to his children, our sincerest sympathy, and offer to them all service which is within our power to give; and be it further

Resolved, that this resolution be forwarded to Edith Huntley, and that a copy thereof be spread upon the minutes of this meeting.

Be it further resolved that we adjourn forthwith in love and respect to Jack Huntley.

PERMANENT INJUNCTION ENDS SUIT

Montgomery Gets Decree Against City Land Deals

BY STIPULATIONS

Judgment Lifted to Permit Refund of the Purchase Price

Repayment to the city of all money paid for the airport and for Glendale Verdugo Park, including all expenditures on those tracts, was followed by the making effective and permanent the temporary injunction secured by George A. Montgomery against the city councilmen, the city of Glendale, and all parties to the deals by which these tracts were secured. This was in conformity with a stipulation signed by the attorneys for all the parties involved, being a stipulation for the entry of judgment by agreement for the plaintiff.

The entry of judgment has a far-reaching effect and followed the payment of the money. The stipulation for it stated: "That the temporary injunction heretofore allowed . . . enjoining the above named city council, the city controller and the city treasurer of the said city of Glendale . . . and restraining them, and each of them and their successors in office from drawing, ordering to be drawn, issuing or ordering to be issued, or ordering to be paid, and from paying any warrant or order for the payment of any of the public funds or moneys of the said city of Glendale upon or to apply upon the contracts, or either of them, set forth and described in plaintiff's complaint, be made permanent and perpetual against said officers and their successors in office, and that a final judgment may be entered in this action to that effect, and further adjudging that said contracts and each of them are void and of no effect, and that the city of Glendale has no interest by virtue thereof in the land thereon described and that no further relief shall be given by this judgment."

Previously the parties to the suit had agreed to a judgment in order that the title company might pass upon the title to the purchasers of the contracts turned over by the city, thus clearing the record of litigation against the property by terminating the suit. The final stipulation for a permanent injunction also bars further dealing on the contracts for both tracts.

The train which returned Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson to Glendale for attendance at the wedding of his son to Miss Ruth Waterman, which is to take place tonight, was an hour late and he did not register at the Glendale Southern Pacific station until after 10 o'clock.

He refused to enter into particulars about the postal convention at San Francisco until he had opportunity to collect his thoughts concerning it, but did state that according to First Assistant Bartlett and other well posted officials, it was the biggest postal convention that has ever been held in the United States, and "Glendale went onto the post office map with a bang," making a great impression on that huge assembly. When asked if she is to get a federal building he replied, "No, not yet. That will have to come later."

He has promised to give the full story of Glendale's sensational day in postal circles to the very near future, so that all Glendale may know what was really accomplished by himself, Assistant Postmaster Hallett, Secretary Sanders of the chamber of commerce, and Dr. H. R. Boyer, who was delegated to represent the Merchants' Credit association.

STATE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS MEET

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH, June 28.—Six thousand young members of the state Christian Endeavor Union were given the keys to the city by Mayor Buftum last night in the opening session of the thirty-sixth annual convention.

Mayor Buftum appeared at both the First Christian and First Presbyterian churches where "duplicate" meetings were held, and delivered an address of welcome to the city's guests who have come from every part of the state to participate in the convocation.

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Dr. George M. Rourke at the First Presbyterian church and by Dr. George P. Taubman at the Christian church. Harry C. Allen, state field secretary, responded to the welcome in Dr. Rourke's church, while Paul Brown, Pacific coast secretary for the United Society, gave the response in the Christian church.

Announcement was made of a special boat trip for the delegates to be taken through the harbor on Friday afternoon, as well as a trip to Catalina island. The island trip will be made on Monday, after the close of the convention, and it is expected that many delegates will stay over for this event.

FOUR DAYS AND NIGHTS FLIGHT IN AIR BEGINS

[By Associated Press]

SAN DIEGO, June 28.—Starting their second attempt in two days to break endurance and speed records, Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant Jasper Richton, army aviators, who were forced down by generator trouble yesterday, took off at 4:46:43 this morning, on what is planned to be, if possible, a flight of four days and four nights.

Efforts to smash all existing records for speed, endurance and distance over 2500, 3000, 3500 and 4000 kilometers are to be made by the army aviators together with the setting up of new records up to 7500 kilometers for which, at the time, are new world marks. The men are flying over a fifty kilometer, three pylon course. During the first three hours of their flight this morning, the airplane, according to observers, appeared to be performing perfectly. A speed of slightly more than 90 miles per hour was maintained, it was estimated.

At 9 o'clock, after they had been flying nearly 3½ hours, Smith and Richton were making a speed of about 90 miles an hour and with no indications of any mechanical troubles.

PELANCONI SCHOOL SITE IS ESCROWED

Board of Education Buys Frontage of 500 Feet in North

TO BE MORE ACREAGE

Bids for Magnolia and Pacific to Be Opened Next Tuesday

In studying the budget for city schools for the coming year as presented by Superintendent Richardson D. White at the meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday night, it will be observed that there is a balance of $46,000 for building purposes, outside of the returns from the sale of $500,000 of bonds. This smaller sum is what is termed an emergency fund to take care of the building and repair work to be done during the year. This provides for the temporary bungalows as well as repair work. The board keeps four carpenters busy throughout the year on its twelve plants. The present budget includes about $35,000 to replenish this fund for next year's needs.

Yesterday the papers in connection with the sale to the board of the Pelanconi site in the northwest went into effect. The purchase covers a frontage of about 500 feet on the south side of Glenwood road cornering on Concord street, which is to be opened.

As the Pelanconi property is somewhat triangular in shape, the board is purchasing from Edwards & Wildey, lots 160 and 168 of the Hahn tract facing Concord to round out the piece and make an oblong about 900 feet deep, representing approximately 10 acres. The Pelanconi land is priced at $3250 an acre and the two lots at $2750.

Other purchases include a 50x200 lot to round out the Pacific avenue campus, also two lots on Acacia and one on Park avenue to increase the Glendale avenue campus to approximately 4½ acres. The purchases are being made from Rev. O. P. Rider, Capt. Frederick Weisenheimer, and Mrs. Barber.

In connection with Columbus avenue the board has bought a house and lot on Milford next to the corner of Columbus from Mrs. Jones, and has also bought 30 feet on the west line from Mr. Dick who owns 80 feet.

To increase the size of the Magnolia school a piece of land having a frontage of 341 feet on Palmer and depth of 150 feet has been purchased from Misses Ida and Harriet Myers for $11,000. Up in the northeast is the Sparr Heights site on which the

SWAPPING ANSWERS INCREASE

Glendale Press Box Numbers Filling Rapidly With Replies

REPORTS ON DEALS

Game Becomes More Intricate Day by Day in Every Way

By JENNIE SWENSON

If you have anything to trade, lend, or sell, the swap column is the place for it.

The answers to ads which appeared in the swap column with box numbers are coming in thick and fast. No reports have been received from those who gave phone numbers or addresses, but if the box answers are any indication, these should be equally plentiful in number.

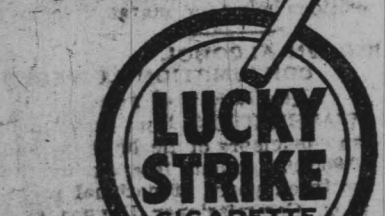

The Press wants to know what results you had in your swapping. If you close a deal, or receive exceptionally attractive answers, tell us about it. It may induce the way one to take a chance on the swap column, and as in everything the more the merrier.

Some have doubtless had this experience in swapping. The answers did not provide just the article which the advertiser first thought of making the deal for. That should bring no dismay, because some of the offers in the answers might be even more valuable than the original item specified in the swap ad. One can always swap again, and it isn't a bad idea to take advantage of some of the offers made, and then try to re-swap. As the game goes on, it will be found to become more and more intricate, and a whole library of things to swap will be like interesting episodes in a movie.

Which last is a reminder that some of these swap answers would make excellent movie plots. First and foremost, there is the element of suspense entering into the game, about the first thing a factor that every playwright will insist upon early in the story. Then come the episodes in the form of answers, introducing the different threads of the story. For instance, should the heroine advertise to swap something, and the hero, unknowing that the hand of Fate was letting her finger tips touch the type in the swap column, answers the swap ad. In this way, they become acquainted, etc. Then, of course, comes the fatal heart attack, and as usual, the story develops to the point where it is extremely difficult to tell whether she has given her heart to him, or he has given his heart to her, and of course the end is that the conclusion is that they swap. This shows how intricate a little, innocent looking swap ad can be, and if there are any aspiring playwright writers who are languishing for lack of material, here's the chance. Try a swap for results.

'QUEEN OF SHEBA' OPENS TONIGHT AT GLENDALE

Gorgeous Spectacle Is Credit to Home Management

"The Queen of Sheba," that magnificent personage of history, who with her bejewelled robes astonished kings and inspired awe in the hearts of the succeeding generations, which have failed to bring forth a second such as she, is making a return engagement in Glendale.

Appearing in a stupendous motion picture drama, which has claimed the applause from the many hundreds of thousands of theatergoers throughout the United States "The Queen of Sheba" will be shown at the Glendale Theater tonight at 8 o'clock, Friday afternoon at 2:30 and again in the evening.

Fascinating Betty Blythe as the glorious queen, will appear in all her splendor, cutting a striking figure throughout the dramatic production, which figures 10,000 people, 500 horses and camels and 671 scenes.

When the "Queen of Sheba" was first released by William Fox it was predicted that this production would be in for a long run. This prediction has been entirely fulfilled, and indications are that the end is not yet and will not be for some time to come.

This production was presented at a Broadway theater in New York when first released, and ran for nearly six months, drawing enormous audiences. The cost of the production exceeded one million dollars, but is to be offered at popular prices at the Glendale.

Owing to the length of the feature program tonight and tomorrow night, Chapter Eight of "The Oregon Trail" will be omitted, but holders of the passes for this chapter play will be admitted as usual, it is announced.

GLENDAL ART ASSOCIATION TO MEET

William J. McCloskey to Discuss Philosophy of Living on Sunday

The Glendale Art Association, of which Mrs. Roy Ballagh is president, is to have a treat Sunday afternoon at its meeting at 3 o'clock in the juvenile room of the public library on Harvard in a talk on art and the philosophy of living by the distinguished portrait painter, William J. McCloskey, whose studios in Paris and San Francisco have been rallying points for art lovers.

A man 65 years of age, Mr. McCloskey is a rather wonderful personality who has evolved a very sane philosophy of living. Every morning he walks four miles to his studio and then puts in a long day of work. Having perfected a special lighting system he is not dependent upon daylight and does some of his best portraiture at night.

He is the official portrait painter of the post of the American Legion at Hollywood, and has made some striking portraits of commanding and non-commissioned officers.

In connection with his talk will be an exhibit of some of his portraits or character studies.

REV. WINNARD TO TAKE A VACATION

After a successful year as pastor of the Tropic Presbyterian church, Central and Laurel, Rev. J. F. Winnard will leave the first of July for a much needed rest of one month. Reports from the Tropic church indicate that the congregation has been increased by a large percentage during the year, due partly to Rev. Winnard's services and to the rapid growth of the Tropic district.

He will leave Harold Shafer, a student at Occidental College, to fill the pulpit during his absence. Mr. Shafer is said to be exceptionally talented as a speaker, and will undoubtedly meet with the approval of the congregation.

Mr. McCloskey the ability to paint a portrait is a distinct and separate gift, independent of the artistic faculty. "Art is not nature, but nature seen through a temperament," he declares. "A portrait is not a reproduction of two individuals, of the artist who paints it as well as the person who sits for it; for no matter how impersonal we may be in our work, it is tinged with our own personality. Therefore the portrait painter must try to eliminate as much as possible his own personality and become simply the medium through which a representation of his sitter's character is placed upon the canvas. The painter can come nearer to this much desired result by trying to understand, sympathize and enter into his sitter's thoughts and emotions and view life as he sees it. It is clear from this that Mr. McCloskey endeavors to interpret his sitters, not simply to make a photographic representation of their features."

The general public is invited to this meeting which should be of exceptional interest to art lovers.

DeMolay Organized in Rome and Milan

According to a cablegram received in Kansas City by Frank S. Land, grand scribe and founder of the order of DeMolay from Judge Alexander G. Cochrane, St. Louis, grand master counselor, now in Milan, Italy, chapters of the order have been instituted in Rome and Milan.

These are the first chapters to be installed in Italy and Judge Cochrane states that intense interest is being shown in the organization and much enthusiasm displayed over the movement.

The order of DeMolay, a boy's fraternity for the sons of Master Masons and their chums between the ages of 16 and 21, teaching love of parents, reverence, patriotism, purity, courtesy, comradeship and fidelity, started four years ago as a boys' club of nine members, fostered by Frank S. Land in Kansas City. Within the short space of four years it has grown to 981 chapters and 100,000 members.

DeMolay is now in practically every state in the union, Canada, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, and has been introduced in Europe as stated above. The organization seeks to make better boys, better men and better citizens. It is rendering a real service in the community life by insisting on a practical application of the ideals exemplified in the degrees.

Indian Woman No Longer Slave of the Warrior

WASHINGTON, June 27 (United Press).—The original American woman is catching up.

Time was when the Indian squaw was not highly regarded in her own community. She was the bearer of burdens, the drawer of water, the maker of wood and the slave of the warrior.

But today, the Indian woman is taking her place as an organized place in the home making and industry of her people.

Out in Montana, among the Blackfeet, Commissioner Campbell, who had charge of the Indians on behalf of the Great White Father in Washington, organized the men Indians to "chairs," numbering the heads of a score of families.

These chapters elected their own officers and worked out a five year program of agricultural development.

Then Campbell organized the Indian women into "auxiliaries" and they began studying home making and poultry raising.

A group of Indians called on Commissioner Burke, head of the Indian office in the interior department the other day. The women went along. They told proudly of how they had helped make the five year agricultural program go.

And they showed Burke that Indian women have made good on their own peculiar problem.

Somebody spread a story that the Montana Blackfeet were starving. They went to Burke to disprove this.

Big Lodge Pole, No Coat, Bird Ratler, Black Weasel and a score more told Commissioner Burke that instead of starving, the Blackfeet have battled and beaten a period of agricultural depression and are now thoroughly on their feet financially.

LITTLE INVALIDS WRITE POETRY

That the little shut-in children taught by the home teacher employed by the board of education just naturally drop into poetry is proved by the following examples which Mrs. Fitzpatrick has furnished to the Press.

The verses about "The Little Girl Up the Street" were written by Vera McCoubrey, sister of A. E. McCoubrey, who is on the staff of the Glendale Press and who is prominent in the Community Players.

THE LITTLE GIRL UP THE STREET

The little girl up the street, She always looks so cute and sweet, When the sun is shining fair It shines upon her golden hair.

Her chubby rosy little face Has big brown eyes so full of grace, She's always neat, prim and gay, And loves to play the live long day.

If I sit out and read a book I do not even have to look When I hear little feet Come pitter patter down the street.

I know it's little Mary Jo Who love to run and frolic so, To my eyes she is a treat; She always looks so cute and sweet.

—VERA MCCOUBREY

SPRING

The sun shines with dazzling ray Over the mountains and the bay, Birds of passage flying by Herald their coming through the sky.

The busy bee hums its song Among the flowers all day long, Never tiring for an hour, Sipping sweets from each frail flower.

Nature wakes each tiny thing, Calling softly: It is Spring! The birds caroling on the wing, Sing it too: "The Spring! The Spring!"

HARDING ADVOCATES PLANE OF LESS WAR

[By Associated Press]

POCATELLO, Idaho, June 28.—Declaring the American people "ought to give of their influence to direct the world to a plane where there will be less of war," President Harding carried into Idaho, the home of Senator Borah, today an appeal for American membership in the permanent court of international justice.

Making the first of his two Idaho speeches, the president declared he would "a thousand times rather enst the adjustment of a dispute in which America is interested in a permanent court of international justice with American representation than that any arbitration set up by the states of the world."

Senator Borah, who has from time to time criticized the administration world court proposal in the senate last February, met the president at Cache Junction, Utah, and in a statement to newspaper men said he felt the position of the president as set forth in his St. Louis speech was generally agreeable to the people of the country as well as to the republican party.

"As I understand the president's position," said Senator Borah, "he believes the League of Nations is dead, so far as any possibility of the participation of America is concerned. I am entirely agreed on the conclusion of the president that any world court in which the United States may join cannot be connected with the League of Nations in any way whatsoever."

A woman may drive her husband to drink, but she can't make him take water.

One good test—

—of the purity and stability of a motor oil is the amount of carbon it forms.

Zerolene forms, on an average, 30% less carbon than other oils. The carbon is soft and fluffy and most of it blows out with the exhaust. For this reason the Zerolene lubricated automobile may be driven from 25% to 50% farther without having the valves ground or the cylinders rebored.

Zerolene forms less carbon than any other motor oil known to us.

Insist on Zerolene—even if it does cost less. Ask for it by name—Zerolene.

"SALVATION" IS NAZARENE TENT EVENING THEME

"How Shall We Escape if We Neglect so Great a Salvation?" Heb. 2:3, was the text from which Rev. L. E. Swaney preached at the Nazarene tent Wednesday. The evangelist divided his sermon under eight different headings as follows:

- 1—This salvation is great because of its origin.
- 2—This salvation is great because of its author.
- 3—This salvation is great because of its cost.
- 4—Because of its design and effect.
- 5—Because of its scope.
- 6—Because of its duration.
- 7—How this salvation is reached.
- 8—Because of the respect it commands.

The sermon was listened to with close attention by the large audience. The musical part of the service included a solo by Mrs. Harry Hull of Los Angeles. Mrs. Warren West of 1815 South Brand boulevard is doing splendid work at the piano each evening.

There will be services this evening and Friday evening but no service Saturday night.

AMERICAN RELIEF MEDICAL AID IN RUSSIA CLOSES

FOREVER BLIND, METHYL RESULT

[By Associated Press]
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 28.—Most cases of blindness due to the use of methyl (wood alcohol) remain permanently blind, according to Dr. H. Moulton of Fort Smith, Ark., who spoke before the American Medical association annual convention here. Dr. Moulton declared that "very early treatment may preserve the eyesight in some cases." He said:

"Many substitutes for the usual alcoholic drinks contain wood alcohol. In recent years many hundred cases have been reported of death or blindness from this cause."

cal instruments and hundreds of varieties of other necessities. Four hundred and seventy thousand blankets, 570,000 sheets, 675,000 pajamas and night shirts, 86,000 complete infant layettes, 890,000 towels, 155,000 pillow and mattress covers and 90,000 pairs of slippers were among the clothes item.

In quantities of from ten to fifty thousand bottles were shipped 40 tons of chloroform and ether, 57 tons of castor oil, fifteen tons of aspirin, and 31 tons of boric acid. Other large items were 60,000 pounds of quinine valued at half a million dollars, 700,000 tubes of salvarsan and 700,000 pounds of cod-liver oil for children.

Russian hospitals were given 160,000 articles of enamelware, rubber goods for ward equipment and 1300 complete operating sets in addition to 250,000 surgical and dental instruments. The almost unlimited amount of surgical dressings included over eight million gauze bandages. Among the disinfectants were 2,500,000 pounds of soap and 800,000 pounds of sulphur.

The American Relief Administration has made possible continued research work in laboratories and clinics by supplying X-ray apparatus, microscopes, slides, etc., has opened anti-malaria stations throughout Russia and is now organizing units to fight trachoma in the Tartar Republic where a large proportion of the population is infected with this disease.

Cheating the "Pro" by Learning by Radio How to Play Golf

It may be all right and legal, and all that, but why take money from a frugal golf professional? His job used to be to make golf clubs and show enthusiasts how to play the ancient and honorable game. He hasn't got time to make clubs now, but he would like to have an opportunity to gather in a few dollars imparting his knowledge about stance, grip and so forth. The above photograph shows how radio broadcast is cutting into the "pro's" profits.

LABOR PARTY WILL DEMAND MANY REFORMS

[By Associated Press]
LONDON, June 28.—Delegates from all over Great Britain met here today to consider the program for the twenty-third annual conference of the labor party.

The financial resolution condemns the government's policy, particularly as regards expenditure on armaments. It urges the necessity for a capital levy to decrease the tremendous national debt. In its education policy, the executive committee seeks to have the conference denounce the government for "its disastrous policy of crippling our national education service and forcing education to pursue a similar course."

As to unemployment, the executive committee resolution holds the government responsible for most of the suffering and physical and mental deterioration to which it declares an enormous proportion of the entire wage-earning class has been subjected during the last three years.

With regard to housing the committee calls for an immediate government undertaking to force local authorities to draw up and carry out a three-year program of house building sufficient to provide "a decent and adequate house" for every family at a rent within the wage-earners' means. A part of the scheme would be a subsidy to builders. Money for this would be raised by a national loan.

WHY WORRY?

The fussy station master of a small village near Edinburgh found one night a fellow countryman standing, nonchalantly smoking, with his feet half over the edge of the "up" platform.

"Don't you know that the Edinburgh express is passing here directly at sixty miles an hour?" said the station master. "Come back, come back!"

The other slowly turned his head and, taking his pipe out of his mouth, replied: "You're awfully feered for your train!"

PUBLIC SCHOOLS URGED TO TEACH HEALTH THEORIES

[By Associated Press]
SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—The social organization was compared to an intricate machine by Dr. Oscar Dowling, state health officer of Louisiana, at a meeting of the Preventive and Industrial Medicine section of the American Medical association convention here today. Dr. Dowling said that for proper operation, health is fundamental. "Health implies right conditions of growth and development for the child, proper heredity, prenatal care of the mother, recreational direction and an ideal environment," he added. "In securing these results every part of the body politic bears a reciprocal responsibility." He emphasized particularly the need for teaching and principles of hygiene, citizenship and the right social order in the public schools.

BOOK TO SAVE $10,000,000
CHICAGO (United Press).—Businessmen the country over will save $10,000,000 by the publication of a new city directory of Chicago, statistical experts estimated here. The flood of misaddressed mail, caused by obsolete addresses, will save a huge waste in the mailing of circulars, it is stated.

WORK AND WAIT

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

You are aggrieved and disappointed because the advent of the new year has not brought to you the salary increase you had confidently looked for. You feel that you have been unjustly treated.

Perhaps you have. Perhaps your employer is one of those short-sighted, avaricious folk who greedily augment immediate profits even at the loss of greater ultimate gains. It is entirely possible that this is the case.

But, on the other hand, it also is possible that business conditions alone are responsible for the disappointment you have experienced. You may not have taken this latter possibility into account.

In any event I would sincerely urge you not to let your disappointment affect your work.

Recognize that your working power is your chief asset from a business point of view. Recognize that if you continue to work to the best of your ability, and if you are really worth a higher salary than you now are receiving, somebody will some day pay you what you ought to be paid.

It may not be your present employer. It will not be, if he is in fact of the skinflint type. But if you continue faithfully to labor you will not always have to work for him. Opportunity to make an advantageous change is certain to be yours.

Wherefore, work and wait. "Patience and application," says one of the oldest of proverbs, "will carry us through. Another gives the reminder, "Patience and time accomplish more than violence." Still another affirms, "The world is for him who has patience."

Certainly impatience, anger, bitter complaining, will avail you nothing. Nor will it any the more advantage you to act in accordance with the heated declaration:

"I'll show him. He's not paying me properly for the work I've been doing for him. Now he'll get not a bit more out of me than he's paying me for."

The result of such a policy may be most painful to you, an unexpected loss of employment. Certainly, at any rate, it will shut you off from possible employment elsewhere at better pay.

For, understand well, if you deliberately underwork you will become surprisingly widely known as an underworker. Your motive for underworking will be given no thought. The fact of your underworking will.

By deliberately underworking, that is to say, you will be cheating yourself fully as much as your employer. You will be building up for yourself a reputation that may mean the death knell of your ambitions and your hopes.

And remember always that your estimate of your present employer may be wrong. Quite possibly, as suggested, his failure to give you the expected salary increase may be due to business conditions beyond his control.

In which case the calmness with which you accept this disappointment, the earnestness with which you continue to apply yourself to your duties, will count tremendously in your favor. At the first opportunity, you may be sure, the reward now denied you will be accorded.

Tom Gibbons Training for Championship Bout with Jack Dempsey at Shelby, Mont.

This photograph, taken shortly after Tom Gibbons began getting himself into condition for a chance at the world's heavyweight title, shows him to be in very good shape. Gibbons transplanted his family from Minnesota and seemed to take kindly to the Montana atmosphere. He is shown here boxing with Bud Gorman.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours

Every Druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenhrh, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.
Allenhrh has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.
Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenhrh, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenhrh decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as such in every instance. Roberts & Echols can supply you.—Advt.

LONDON BEGINS TO PROVIDE FOR BABIES

By municipal law in London all necessitous expectant mothers, as well as nursing mothers and their children, may be provided with a specific quantity of milk daily on application to the medical officer of health at the town hall, according to Miss W. Bertram Ireland, former secretary of the London Federation of Infant Welfare Centres, who has just arrived in New York.

At the American Child Health association, Miss Ireland discussed this aspect of child welfare with Miss Sally Lucas Jean, director of the department of health education of the organization.

"No expectant or nursing mother or her child need be without an adequate amount of milk in London," she said. "If needy women in such a condition are not already receiving milk from some charitable enterprise, they may always provide themselves with it at the town hall. The amount they are given depends upon what is judged to be their need."

Another excellent provision in their behalf, Miss Ireland said, is that clause of the National Health Insurance law, which provides that any woman who has paid the compulsory health insurance required of all workers shall receive a benefit of two pounds (over nine dollars) at the birth of her baby. If her husband is also insured, they receive four pounds. To receive this payment, it is necessary to have been working for 12 weeks before the benefit is paid.

"Small as the amount seems, it is enough to enable the mother to pay the charges of the midwife and, in case her husband is also insured, most of the necessary expenses of her illness," Miss Ireland commented. "Midwives are usually the only attendants in the case of the poor. However, midwives in England are of much higher order than I am told they are in the United States. The act constituting a central midwives' board, provides that no midwife shall have had less than five months of training for her work. Any registered midwife is capable of performing her duties."

England also leads the United States in her birth registration laws. In England every birth must be registered within 36 hours after the child is born, and a penalty not exceeding one pound may be exacted if the registration is not made within that time. In America, nearly one-third of the population of the United States live in areas where the recording of births is either non-existent or so unsatisfactory that the figures cannot be accepted by the United States government as being even 90 per cent correct. At the present time, the American Child Health association, and other child health organizations, are appealing for better birth registration laws. Miss Ireland reported that there are 208 infant welfare centers in London, at which care is given the child from before birth until he is five years old. Pre-natal care is more general than in the United States, and most of the infant welfare clinics have pre-natal clinics in connection with them.

BEAUTIFUL HANDS FROM DISHPANS
CHICAGO, June 27 (United Press).—For lovely hands, wash dishes!

This is the advice of beauty specialists and household economists to all women who seek the "carved white hands" of which the poet sang.

"Don't have the water too hot or the soap too strong," Mrs. Louise, a director of the Illinois and Chicago Haldressers' association, warned in acclaiming the dishpan as the secret to beautiful hands. "After the dishes are washed, apply a lotion while the pores are still open. Then mold the fingers so they will taper. Soft, lovely hands are sure to result."

"Dishes can be done so daintily that it is a pleasure," Mrs. Wilbur E. Frilby, state chairman of the home economics department of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, declared. "Use mild soap and apply a lotion afterwards," she advised.

MILLIONAIRE BROTHERS JAILED AS BOOTLEGGERS

Essex Co. Penitentiary & Montague La Montagne

This photograph shows the Essex county penitentiary at Caldwell, N. J., where the four multi-millionaire La Montagne brothers—Rene, Montague, William A. and Morgan E.—have been sentenced to from two to four months' imprisonment on the charge of violating the national prohibition laws. They were among the largest distillers in America and pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor for a party at the Racquet and Tennis club of New York, the most exclusive club in America, of which all are members. The brothers move in the best society. Rene La Montagne is a polo player of international fame.

The Glendale Daily Press Will Start a Special Swapper's
Column in Its Want Ad Section on Saturday, June 23

Clean Out That Attic, Storeroom or Cellar!

Swap the Things You Don't Want! Get in Return the Things You Really Want and Need!

It's Fun to Swap!

Remember how, as a boy, you were always swapping a knife for a ball-bat; a fish-pole for a sling-shot; anything for everything? Wasn't it fun?

Of course, swapping is fun. It always has been; it still is; it always will be. Thousands of people who read the GLENDALE DAILY PRESS are going to have fun swapping every day.

Every day their SWAP-ADS will be published. Hundreds of people will read each ad. All sorts of swaps will be made—phonographs for radio sets, pigs for chickens, chairs for tables, dogs for cats, automobiles for vacant lots, washing machines for lawn-mowers—any thing for everything.

You can share in the fun. Be a swapper! Start now. Decide at once what you want to swap and send in the SWAP-AD today.

Swapping Saves Money!

Usually it takes money to buy something new. But swapping is different.

The swapper needs no money. He simply takes the things he already has and does not use—things which may really be nuisances to him. By swapping these he gets in return the things he really wants. He spends no money. It's easy, isn't it?

You can be a swapper if you wish. Fill in the blank at the opposite lower corner of this page today.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE AWARDED IN CHILD CARE

Announcement of the allotment and plan of award of a fund of $10,000 offered by the American Child Health Association for a series of scholarships in public health nursing, will be made soon by a committee representing the co-operative aims of two national organizations in the promotion of this phase of public health work. Plans for qualifications, manner of selection, notification and publication as regards the scholarships were passed on at a meeting of the committee on education of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, in joint session with the committee on nursing scholarships and fellowships and curricula of the American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is president. This organization, which is working for the advancement of child health standards as the basis of a sound public health in the nation, has already set aside a similar fund of $10,000 for scholarships to be given to teachers in service who have been especially successful in teaching public health.

The committee determined also at this session on a group of points which public health workers especially concerned with child welfare feel should be included in the curricula of training schools for nurses. The report on this action was presented at a conference meeting of the League for Nursing Education, held at Swampscott, Mass., June 18-21.

The committee which has formulated the details of the scholarship plan is headed by Miss Katherine Tucker, superintendent of nurses of the Philadelphia Visiting Nurse association, as chairman, and includes also Miss Anne Goodrich, dean of the new school of nursing of Yale University; Miss Marion Rice, associate director of the public health nursing course of Simmons College; Miss Elizabeth Burgess, Teachers' College, Columbia University; Miss Alta Dines, director of nurses of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, together with the directing staff of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, and the nurse members of the staff of the American Child Health Association. Its secretary is Miss Winifred Rand, director of child hygiene of the Community Health association of Boston. Miss Anne Stevens is the chairman of the scholarship committee of the American Child Health Association.

These scholarships are intended to further primarily the educational phase of the work of this organization, which, as the first national body devoted to the health of childhood in all its stages, aims to support and give broadening impetus to the purposes and ideas of the growing body of physicians, nurses and workers of all kind who are especially engaged in health care for the child. The extent to which its service is recognized is reflected in the fact that over 45,000 individuals or organizations are on its correspondence lists as having sought its advice and guidance and as desiring to be in touch with its plans. Its membership has grown from an original handful to over 4,000, with

WONDERFUL CATCHES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28 (U. P.).—Either the early season fishermen didn't catch 'em, or the late season like Waltons are stretching the truth scandalously, for wonderful catches are being reported this late in the season every week-end. Trout, bass, salmon and various salt water fish are rising for the fishermen, they report. Limit catches are commonly reported, with the necessary substance in the way of fish to prove the point. Only one or two men have been found who could fairly be accused of having proudly been photographed beside the same catch with the owner of the fish. Not only is the fishing excellent around the bay and in the bay, but in the bay, anywhere within a 50-mile radius, but Fresno sports fishing is fine in the streams near there.

20,000 GATHER IN N. E. A. MEET

[By Associated Press] SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 28.—Twenty thousand educators from 50 different countries of the world and every state in the union are here and in Oakland, Calif., today, to attend the opening of the world conference on education, June 28-July 6, and the National Education association convention, July 1-6, according to estimates of H. A. Allan, business manager of the N. E. A.

The world conference on education has been called for the purpose of bringing together representative educators from various parts of the civilized world in order that they may discuss in a constructive way the part that education may have in establishing peace, officials of the N. E. A. said here today. Great Britain, South Africa, Japan, China and the Balkan countries are among the nations represented.

During the period the N. E. A. convention is being held, 16 allied organizations will hold their conventions in the bay cities, ten being in Oakland, and six in San Francisco. Those to be held in Oakland are: American Home Economics association, National Council of Teachers of English, National Conference on Educational Method, Visual Education conference, National Council of Administrative Women in Education, National Council of Primary Education, National Association of Teachers of Speech, National Organization of Secretaries of State Education Associations, National Council for Social Studies, and the National Council of State Departments of Education. Those to be held in San Francisco are: American Junior Red Cross, Illiteracy commission, National Federation of Modern Language Teachers, National League of Teachers' Associations, School Garden Association of America and the Illiteracy conference.

The representative assembly of the N. E. A. will be held in Oakland, while the general evening sessions will be held in San Francisco. Sessions of the world conference on Education and the National Council of Education will be held in San Francisco.

There will be departmental sessions of the N. E. A. being held daily, of which 11 will be held in San Francisco and nine in Oakland. Those in San Francisco are: business education, child hygiene, educational publications, higher education, immigrant education, normal schools, physical education, school administration, secondary administration, vocational education and practical arts and wider use of school houses. Those in Oakland are: classroom teachers, deans of women, elementary education, elementary school principals, kindergarten education, library, music education, rural education and science instruction.

The National Council of Education will hold four sessions in San Francisco, July 2, 3, 5, and 6. The July 2 session will be opened with an address by J. M. Gwynn, New Orleans, president of the council, and newly appointed superintendent of schools of San Francisco.

The N. E. A. will hold morning and evening sessions from July 1 to 6, inclusive, with the exception of July 4, when a combined patriotic meet will be held at the Greek theatre, University of California, Berkeley. Speakers on the program for July 4 include General John J. Pershing, Alvin M. Owsley, national commander, American Legion; W. W. Campbell, president University of California; Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, Sacramento, Calif. A joint meeting of the N. E. A. and the W. C. E. will be held on the evening of July with the following speakers on the program: Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce; Princess Santa Borghese, Rome; Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, state commissioner of education, Maine; and delegates from the orient, South and Central America.

"Oh, look what a pretty kitten, mammal!" exclaimed small Clarence.

"Yes," replied his mother, "and just think, it never cries."

"Well, no wonder," rejoined the youngster, "it doesn't have its neck washed."

PUBLIC HEALTH NEED STRESSED

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 28.—More widespread activity is shown in the expression of desire for public health conservation than any other existing function of government, asserted Dr. Walter M. Dickie, secretary and executive officer of the California state board of health, in addressing the annual convention of the American Medical association here today.

"Every individual knows that he must be in good health and that the people of his community must be in good health, or else none of them can enjoy any of the advantages that labor, production, commerce and industry bring," Dr. Dickie said. "While the development of this public demand for the safeguarding of its health is along natural lines, the advancement of learning has had most to do with its growth. Its further development has been fostered through the activities of civic, social, medical and semi-medical organizations.

"The circumstance of war has provided a stimulating force of great intensity. While under arms our men learned the advantages of community health protection as provided by army life. Under continuous health supervision for many months, they received first hand demonstrations of what medical science can provide in the maintenance of good health among better living individuals. Upon his return to civil life, each of these veterans has become either a potential advocate or an active missionary in the advancement of public health among the people of his own community. He has become an important factor in the development of this tremendous demand that is now being felt in every corner of our country.

"Rural life in America has completely changed during the past decade. The urbanization of the rural districts of America is taking place so rapidly that it would seem doubtful if we are fully aware of its significance. The former isolation of the rural communities is disintegrating so rapidly that the United States, even now, is fast becoming one big city. Improved transportation is perhaps the greatest factor in bringing about this change. Improved means of communication, of which the radio is the newest, have also helped. Travel, with its educational advantages and the rapid spread of ideas, is reorganizing completely the old time rural mode of living.

As a result, there is a continued advance in the economic and social viewpoint of rural residents. The path of this advance is indicated in the development of rural union schools, cooperative marketing organizations, the farm bureau movement, university extension and library service. It is shown in the expressed desire of rural residents to possess all the attributes for a better life, which through their former isolation have been denied to them.

"Rural district, until the past few years, have almost without exception, lacked machinery for safeguarding the public health. At the present time, however, there is a tremendous impetus toward the establishment of full time health departments in rural communities. Stimulated by the activities of the International Health board, the newly formed public health units are extending health education in the rural district as well as safeguarding the health of rural residents. In fact, the demand for full time county health departments is so great in many states that it is feasible to find trained public health men to administer such units. Rural America is waking up to the strides that urban America has made in keeping urban residents in good health, and when rural America once advances, it advances permanently, solidly and resolutely."

Suffered 20 Years With Cruel Eczema

Hokara Quickly Heals

"Gentlemen: Words cannot describe the suffering that I endured for more than 20 years from Eczema on my limbs and feet. They were so sore and tender that I was obliged to have cushions put in bed to keep the bed clothes from touching me. After treating with different doctors without getting any real relief, my attention was finally called to Hokara. It gave almost instant relief. My limbs and feet were healed and the skin made soft, white and pliable where before they looked like dried beef. I strongly advise anyone suffering from any skin disease to use Hokara. It is a wonderful remedy. Gratefully yours, A. Gray, Andover, Ohio."

Hokara is a non-greasy, stainless, antiseptic cream that goes right to the source of the trouble through the pores. All first-class drug stores can supply you on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.—Adv.

INSULIN

That which has to do with the health of mankind assumes at once an interest over and above any other topic, because over and above everything else we want health.

Cancer, tuberculosis, diabetes and diseases that have hitherto proven stubborn and unyielding beyond the skill of medical treatment to check or cure, have been among the diseases most dreaded by human beings. They have been the evil three taking the greatest toll of human life, and the three upon which most experimentation and study have been expended.

Cancer remains as before mysterious and deadly, although treatment with radium has had some hopeful results, and there remains the surgical interference in cases not too far advanced, although there is always the possibility of no probability or recurrence.

Tuberculosis, perhaps the most dreaded of all human ailments, still has its possibility of arrest and permanent cure, with the agreed methods of treatment, if taken before the ravages of the disease have become too great. But diabetes has proven obstinate and unyielding in many cases, until the recent discovery of insulin, the new therapeutic agent, which acts specifically and immediately even in advanced cases, restoring the functions that have failed or been suspended.

So science seems to have advanced another step in the battle with disease, and death before the years of three score and ten may be averted with the new treatment, where otherwise it might ensue at a regrettably early age.

The gift of John D. Rockefeller Jr., of $150,000 for two purposes, to provide for insulin treatment for those unable to pay, and to promote a knowledge of the treatment by physicians generally, is a notable one.

It is not claimed that insulin cures. Without it, the symptoms and evils would recur. But what a remarkable and beneficent thing it would be if something could be discovered to arrest or suspend the activity of the tubercle bacilli, even though the treatment had to be continued indefinitely. It would be no more than the continued drinking of water to allay thirst. Life could be continued for the usual time, and the failure of the normal functions could be supplied with the therapeutic agent. So the discovery of insulin is a long step in advance for the treatment of a dangerous and fearful disease, and the best of all is the statement of Dr. Flexner that "it works."

And good, too, is it to contemplate upon the human sympathy of some rich men. The present gift will probably be followed up by others. Insulin may be provided for the poor who cannot pay for it, as well as for the rich who can. And another shadow may be removed from the life of the human race, or at least that part of it that has been threatened with untimely death by a hitherto mysterious and terrifying disease.

BLOCS

As Macbeth might say, "Dammed be he who first invented Blocs." And yet the origin of the bloc is a not unnatural expression of self interest, evil as blocs may be.

This cannot be a country of blocs, if it is to thrive. Lincoln said one time that we could not endure, half slave and half free. Neither can we endure half favored and half-not favored, or half prosperous and half needy. We must go forward together. We can not safely move half forward and half backward at the same time.

If the industrial bloc prospers to the disadvantage of the agricultural bloc, then the time will come when there will be no market for industrial products, in a profitable way. And if the agricultural bloc is legislated for alone, then other blocs will suffer. The railroads cannot be disregarded, for they transport agricultural products—indeed, they transport all products. And if they cannot transport them profitably and rapidly, then market is interfered with.

Europe is suffering from the bloc system. We have the French bloc and the German bloc and the Russian bloc and the Belgian bloc and the Italian bloc and the English bloc. In a larger sense, the result is the same as in this country with sectional blocs and production blocs. There is no peace or harmony or security in Europe because of the bloc system.

As well say that in a city, one section of it might prosper with plenty and another suffer with need. That one section might have lights and transportation and another be deprived of them. In the end the section of the city that was prosperous would have to shoulder the burdens of the unprosperous section. The logic is inevitable.

We are growing to have too much occupational prejudice in this country. Too much prejudice of class against class. Too much fanning of hatreds between railroads and farms, factories and fields. There may be discriminations that lead naturally to these states of mind. But to encourage them is not patriotic. It is an evidence of littleness and narrowness and mean selfishness.

Glass eyes are now made with such perfection that even the wearers are unable to see through the deception.

The more henpecked a man is the more ferocious he tries to act when he is away from home.

Some men would work if given a chance, but there are others who refuse to take chances.

ROTARY

Our great newspapers take a more kindly view of such clubs as Rotary than do some of our novelists. Witness the following from the New York Times, touching the annual convention of Rotary at St. Louis:

"Whether they are working for the public health, endowing beds in hospitals, subscribing for the physical and mental training of boys, giving Edwin Booth's portrait to the Stratford-on-Avon Memorial Gallery, they are always doing something for the community. They began as an obscure little luncheon club. They have become a considerable and growing power for civic, economic and social improvement. If there are persons cold to 'prosperity billboards' and cynical novelists apt to sneer at the unceasing and multifarious Rotarian activities, the value and essentially unselfish intention of most of these can't be denied except by 'the spirit that denies.' Long-handed and yet sometimes a little naive, eager, bustling, gregarious, hopeful and free-handed, our Rotarians are a characteristic expression of the composite, migratory, trustful and boyish nation of their origin.

"They love to talk and to be talked to; they love to advertise and to help; they are men who must be 'doing things'; and they succeed, with an ample humor, gaiety, blowing of the trumpet and sincerity, in achieving, to the extent of their power, beneficial and human purposes."

Only a millionaire can afford to wear a misfit suit.

FIRES AND PROGRESS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Arson is a crime that inspires thoughts of horror. Just the same, wouldn't it be fine if we were all able to fire our material possessions every ten years and begin again? There is deep spiritual significance in the story of the phoenix rising from its own ashes. We can not build adequately unless we first destroy; and few of us have the courage to voluntarily destroy the shell of the past.

Dead thoughts cluster about furnishings that were chosen for a dead generation, and I have often noticed that in proportion as people tend to renew their material possessions they are mentally alive.

Understand, I recognize exceptions to this rule. The past of every nation and of many families has produced things which are in themselves expressions of genius, things which are eternally beautiful because ageless in the spiritual language they express.

Such things can never be destroyed except at incalculable loss to the world. Among them belong the great pictures, the splendid statues, the notable literary achievements of the race.

But the average family accumulates junk as it accumulates prejudices, and it holds both with a death grip. Curious as the fact is, psychologists have found that many cases of hysteria are closely likened with an accumulated mass of trash which is somewhere in the house stored out of sight.

I know one case especially where the patient, coming to a famous psychoanalyst for treatment, was unable to make any progress until she had cleared out and destroyed all the useless things in her basement and attic.

An acquaintance of mine told me that she had long desired to write but found herself unable to do so because of an increasing feeling of overwhelming weight that oppressed her. Finally, deciding that she would never find time to do the things she wished to do, she arose and cleaned house with a thoroughness that she had never before dared indulge.

Immediately the feeling of oppression left and her thoughts cleared. With clean paper and a clear mind she sat down and wrote the first story that presented itself to her.

It sold promptly and from that time on she had mastered her lesson, she progressed.

The saddest family I knew is one where nothing is ever destroyed. Every nook and cranny of the place is cluttered with mementoes of the past, pressed flowers, baby shoes, bits of old wedding finery, antique books with the thoughts of antique authors in them, until there is nowhere room for the free expression of the thoughts and productions of the living. A fire in that house would be a blessing; it would at least compel the members of the family to create new surroundings of their own choice. As it is, they are mentally and spiritually dead; they have accepted what the dead left and so are content. And that is death.

Myself—every so often I find that I am not achieving and then I stop trying. Instead of creating I begin and destroy. Every useless thing I burn, and things that still have possibilities—but not for me, I give away. As soon as the job is complete I feel like going on with new things.

And that is why I began just now to reflect that a fire every ten years or so might be a good spiritual inspiration. The only trouble is that so few of us can afford it. However, we can afford fires on a small scale, those which consume dead wood and leave room for the new which is after all the expression of the newest stream of life that has come to us.

LISTENING POST

James W. Foley

Out in the early morning comes the worm.
A humble thing to write about to be sure.
But a worm is a worm.
And a part of creation.

JAMES W. FOLEY

So he is entitled to consideration.
To a wormy consideration at least.

He crawls upon a dewy leaf.
A dewy leaf is not a great thing to write about either.

But it is a part of the plant.
It may be a cabbage plant or a tomato plant or a cucumber plant.

Depending on the fancy of the worm.

And as a part of the plant the leaf is necessary to the growth of the plant.
So it is worth consideration.

And the worm crawls up on the leaf and begins to assimilate it.

For a leaf, from the worm's point of view, is merely worm food.

And then comes a bird.
Not a great thing to write about.
For it is a very small bird.

But it has quick eyes and a sharp bill.
And as the leaf, from the worm's point of view, is merely worm food, so is the worm, from the bird's point of view, merely bird food.

And the bird swoops and dives, and up goes the worm in the bill of the bird.

To find a resting place in the bird's crop.

And the leaf is saved because the bird ate the worm.

Which was hard on the worm.

Songs of the Poets

The Songs I Sing—Charles G. Blanden

The songs I sing at morning
I never sing at eve;
Oh, not through any scolding,
For tears regret my leave;
But that our radiant pleasures
Suit not the shadowed hour,
For which I have such measures
As mourn the withered flower.

The songs I sing at twilight
I never sing at morn;
I would not mar the highlight
With any note forlorn;
My path made gay and sunny,
With joy I fill my heart;
The hyssop from the honey—
I keep them wide apart.

OLD FRIENDS AND NEW

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE is a vast deal of sentiment that has been expended upon the subject of old friends, and somebody ought to say something about new friends.

Of course an old friend is a treasure and brings a peculiar warmth to the heart. Old friends tried and true cannot be too loyally cherished.

But one by one the old friends drop away from us, some by death, some by removal and some by the sheer separation of growth.

We become different persons ourselves as we grow older and we cannot expect others to remain always the same. And then our ideals and our tastes change.

If life is to be continually enriched, we must be constantly making new friends.

Life, after all, is an adventure, and a new friend has untold possibilities. When a new personality comes within our orbit we have something like the thrill we feel when we take up a new book. The volume may turn out to be stupid enough, but we are interested in seeing what may happen.

One common mistake in the practice of friendship is the notion that friends must be ideal and such as shall meet our approval in every particular. We never find people like that. Everyone has his limitations as we have ourselves, and unless we can take people as they are and like them as they are, including all the ways in which they differ from us, our life will be barren of friendships.

And friends depend a good deal upon fate, or the course of events, or destiny, or something "not of ourselves."

The friend which shall mean much to your life may have drifted into your company at some social gathering, or upon a railroad train, or in the course of business. It is not too fatalistic to believe that destiny has its own plan about your friendships and brings into contact with you those whom you really need and not those whom you think you need.

And friends reveal ourselves to us. Every new person we meet sets up a new reaction in us. The development of our life may be from within, but its course largely depends upon the stimulations it receives from without.

All of us are not only what we have willed ourselves to be, but also to a great extent what our friends have made us.

Altogether it is always a distinct thrill to me when I find a new friendship. It keeps me young, for it keeps me hopeful, and gives me the feeling that there are many pages yet in the book of life which I have not read.

Perhaps indeed the very richness of our nature may depend upon our capacity for new friendships.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HOW SPOILS NULLIFY LAW
(Chicago News)

There are now two states in the Union without concurrent legislation in aid of the enforcement of federal prohibition—namely, Maryland and New York. Massachusetts has a new statute, but a referendum is to be held the voters will annul it, as they annulled a similar statute last year. The Wisconsin assembly has voted to repeal the prohibition enforcement law of that state.

New York's recent repeal of its prohibition law has thrown another burden on the federal agencies charged with the enforcement of prohibition. If any considerable number of states should follow the example of Maryland and New York in dispensing with legislation based upon the Volstead act, the national government would be faced with new difficulties. Appropriations would have to be increased and the number of federal agents multiplied. The federal courts would be swamped with liquor cases, and other cases would stand little chance of reaching trial within reasonable periods.

All these results are foreseen by national lawmakers. But, singularly enough, the average member of congress fails to draw from the growing complexities of the prohibition situation the moral that at the first opportunity the civil service law ought to be extended to cover the appointment of all prohibition enforcement agents.

Despite warnings and arguments, congress made those agents a part of the federal spoils system. The inevitable consequence in many districts has been glaring inefficiency plus willful corruption. Honest prohibition enforcers have resigned frankly because of the

THE RELIGION NEEDED
(New York World)

"I feel personally," says Secretary Weeks, "as all men must do who have passed the meridian of life, a growing inclination toward religion and religious life. . . . I am fearful about the results that have come and are coming from the late war. The civilization of the world is threatened."

Mr. Weeks is right in believing that this civilization needs stabilizing, right, too, in believing that religion might save civilization by preventing another slump into the chaos and madness which accompanied and followed the European conflict. But this cannot be done by a religion that gets behind opposing armies, fights on both sides and splits 50-50 on international disputes. Such a faith can not save civilization, can not even save itself, for it will go down with the fall of the civilization of which it was a part. The religion that is to save civilization must prevent war, must stand in the way of war altogether. The Occident can not afford to worship a god of battles.

temptations to which offers of bribe and social pressure exposed them. Many others have succumbed and become the allies of bootleggers. Startling conspiracies between agents and outside lawbreakers frequently are revealed and these point unerringly to an alarming condition of demoralization and contempt for integrity in office.

If in the face of accumulating evidence of corruption congress persists in keeping prohibition enforcement agents out of the classified service, intelligent citizens will be forced to conclude that it cares more for spoils than for law enforcement.

ETNA ERUPTION NOT RELATED TO OTHERS

The eruption of Mt. Etna is a purely individual exhibition and not connected with the activities of any other volcano, not even with the eruptions of the nearby Vesuvius and Stromboli. Such is the opinion of Dr. Henry S. Washington, volcanologist at the Geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie institute at Washington.

Etna erupts with a sort of irregular regularity, Dr. Washington said, and it sometimes happens that these eruptions correspond with those of Vesuvius. But Etna is isolated while Vesuvius belongs to a whole group of volcanoes extending along the Alban Hills. The other members of this family are now dead, Vesuvius being the only survivor. The difference in the family relationship of Etna and Vesuvius is shown in the different chemical compositions of the lava and gases emitted. Stromboli is another isolated individual, and being in moderate eruption at all times naturally does so simultaneously with Vesuvius and Etna.

Etna is older than the glacial period and has been periodically erupting since that time. A wide, deep valley down the southeastern slopes was formed by some tremendous eruption in prehistoric times. The first historic eruption occurred in 693 B. C., and was referred to by Aristotle and early Greek and Roman historians. Since then eruptions have been known to occur at fairly frequent intervals, although during the middle ages few records were kept.

Since the eruption of 1669, which was one of the greatest of record, it is estimated that the volcano has poured out a cubic mile of lava. Some eruptions, notably those of 1169, 1669, and 1693, have caused great loss of life as owing to the great fertility of the disintegrated lava the lower slopes of the volcano are among the most densely populated regions of the earth. Dr. Washington said there was no danger that the lava would reach Taormina, one of the beauty spots of the world, and reported in some dispatches to be threatened. The configuration of the land would save it.

Volcanic activity in the Mediterranean has no relation with present eruptions of Pacific volcanoes or with earthquakes in Persia and other parts of the world, Dr. Washington declared. While not much is known about volcanoes it is certain, he said, that each draws its stores of lava from nearby, probably not more than ten miles beneath the earth's surface; while earthquakes, although frequently accompanying volcanic eruptions, occur usually from causes entirely different from those of which eruptions are due.

TOMMY GOES TO THE PARTY

"Mrs. Parks, may Thomas go to my party?"

"Why, yes, Maude. I'm sure Tommy will be pleased to be asked."

Toward supper time Tommy, bearing signs of a well contested game

clattered in. "We got licked all right. Four runs. Wouldn't you get them on us only Pinky's arm went bad. Saturday we'll fix them."

"Oh Tommy," said mother with forced brightness. "You have an invitation to Maude's party. It's Saturday from two to five."

"A sissy party? On Saturday? Not me," hooted Tommy.

"Now Tommy, I accepted that invitation for you and you have to go."

Tommy roared as one stricken in ambush. Mother stood firm. To the party he must go. He must learn to consider the pleasure of others.

"Huh! She's only Pinky's sister. Always butting into our fun. She makes me sick!"

Saturday dawned fair and lovely, but Tommy's face was graven in woe.

"Now son," said mother rising from the table and speaking briskly, "step along now. We've a lot to do. Get through with the errands first. Then I'll get you ready."

"Get me ready?" cried Tommy in alarm. "What are you going to do to me?"

"For one thing you have to be bathed and I expect I shall have to give you a good going over and you don't want to go to the party all pink and shiny from your bath."

"Don't want to go at all," growled Tommy.

Mother bustled away to lay out the fresh clothing and shiny pumps and stiff white collar. When Tommy returned from the errands he was escorted to the tub and scrubbed. Then he was rubbed and powdered and polished.

Mother was horrified at the state of his hands. "Goodness, it's ground into them. And your hair will have to be shampooed and dressed. Your nails—"

"Nellie," raising her voice to bring the young aunt to the scene, "Go out and get the tin of mechanic's paste from the garage shelf and you do his hands while I get at his hair. Scour them and get those awful looking callouses down if you can."

Later there emerged a very pink young person correctly dressed for a party, immaculate as to tailoring and very stiff as to neck and foot.

"You can have a bite of lunch," said his mother. "I'll put a towel on you. Keep your hands out of your salad. They're a better color than I hoped they'd be."

From the window they watched the "pleasure-bent" youth march down the walk digging his heels in cordially as he passed. He had pulled his hat down to his nose and thrust his hands deep into his trousers' pockets. He carried the present well hidden, high up under his hunched shoulder. From the right pocket of the immaculate jacket gleamed the whiteness of a new baseball. His mother groaned.

Later that afternoon she saw him again. He was seated beside Maude, a green and orange tissue hat cocked over his eye, a plate of ice cream surrounded by cakes on his lap, a peaceful, well-fed expression on his face. "Better than I hoped," said mother.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Mrs. Doc Graves and I had a heart to heart talk this morning. I explained to her, loudly, that she has less diplomacy than an Airdate in a rat pit.

"You killed that impulse toward economy that Doc had developed," I said. "And it was the only one he ever had."

Doc's salary hasn't been precisely redundant, and they married on a debt, and they have had a bit of bad luck. Doc has built up a little bank account, mostly through fear of what might happen if a one-armed flivver hit him when he crosses the street. The other day Doc's boss told him that hereafter he should draw $800 more salary each year.

"It gives us a chance for the first time," said Doc, beaming, to Mary his wife. "Now we can save a little money without suffering so. One of these days, if nothing happens, we'll be independent."

He was full of plans and hopes and cheerfulness, before Mary got to him. She explained that she had suffered pretty heavily during their black years. Some of her dresses were punk, and many's the movie she has missed and she has never had a real vacation trip, like every other woman she knows.

"What I suggest is," said she, "that you add fifty dollars a month to my allowance. You can afford it now."

Doc yielded in the end. Also he gave up all thought of saving. A young and tender hope wits mightily fast when hit by a frost. Maybe he will get over it, and maybe not.

"It was bum psychology," I told her. "Why take the poor man's raise away from him in a lump? You should have coaxed it out of him a little at a time."

Mary cried. She said she wanted to have a good time like other girls.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

REALTORS ATTACK
MECHANICS' LIEN
OPERATION

Committee to Be Appointed to Work for Its Repeal

The existing mechanics lien law was the object of attack at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Realty Board, Tuesday noon. At the conclusion of the lengthy discussion the board went on record as opposed to the present law and urging that it be repealed. The appointing of a committee to work for the repeal of this law was postponed for one week.

The matter was brought to the attention of the board by Charles B. Guthrie, who said:

"The mechanic's lien law was brought about by the material men and it operates entirely for their good. A movement against this law, I understand, has already been started in Los Angeles. I believe this will be a vital issue during the coming year, and I will be glad to bring it before the state Real Estate association at its convention in October.

"Many of the people who are coming here from the east are making serious complaints against this law. They are now acquainted with the building laws of the state and in many, many instances the builders are compelled to pay twice for the material that goes into their building. I have been in the real estate business in California for years and last week I was compelled to pay for the second time bills amounting to about $700. But that money is gone, and I am starting this campaign with the hope of saving the money of people who have just enough to put up their homes, and have spent years in giving that money."

"There is absolutely no way," said P. J. Hayselden, "whereby you can prosecute the crooked contractor after he has signed up through the operation of this law. I have tried it out and I know, and I have also had advice to this effect from the district attorney's office."

H. M. Miller, W. L. Truitt, H. L. Finley, Roy D. King, W. A. Horn, W. L. Twining and S. W. Sawyer also spoke against the present law.

That the publicity committee of the board cooperate with the publicity committee of the chamber of commerce in the increasing of the service fund for advertising and the selection of the type of advertising to be used, was unanimously decided. This action came in response to a letter from the chamber asking that the board contribute to that organization's service fund.

In discussing this matter, W. L. Twining, chairman of the advertising committee of the chamber stated that there is at this time about $9,000 in the service fund of that organization, all of which will be used to advertise Glendale.

Realtors Peter Harrison, P. J. Hayselden and W. A. Horn also spoke in favor of cooperating with the chamber.

E. P. Hayward was elected as the additional member on the board of directors of the State Realty association, to which Glendale is entitled through having more than 50 members in the state body.

It was decided to send a telegram to Dr. Russell, who will be delegate from Glendale to the national convention of realtors at Cleveland in

PROMISE

The bread upon the water cast
Returns again to thee at last.

The thing thou givest gives two more
Of joy than either had before.

What matters if thou seest the flower
From seed thou sowest in some hour?

Thou knowest in thy heart how fair
Must be the blossoms growing there.

The tide that swells upon the shore
And breaks and foams recedes once more.

And that receding tide will reach
Again and foam upon the beach.

So in thy life will ebb and flow
The tides for God hath willed it so.

But all of hurt and loss and pain
The tides may bring will ebb again.

And all of joy the tide may bear
From thee will come returning there.

Fade soonest the most gorgeous blooms,
How quick the hottest fire consumes!

So be thou patient, humble, kind
And compensation thou shalt find.

Stand fast, keep faith, strive and endure
And thy reward be good and sure.

LOSES PART OF BRAIN; HEALED

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 28.—A young man, with part of his brain removed in an airplane propeller accident, was not only saved from aphasia, loss of memory and speech and paralysis of his entire left side, but is now on the road to complete recovery, declared Dr. Charles G. Stivers, Los Angeles, in an address here today before the seventy-fourth annual convention of the American Medical association.

The young man had been struck on the head by an airplane propeller and rendered unconscious for about a week. The surgeon who attended him, after sewing together fragments of brain, was able to offer little encouragement to the young man's family, and it was believed he must remain permanently paralyzed in mind and body.

The wound healed, however, and although the patient developed fits, these, too, passed. He was placed in Dr. Stivers' care. Now, after six months, the physician said, his complete re-education appears to be assured. He is able to read the newspapers, write letters, talk to his family, is learning to keep a diary, and is beginning to re-acquire a business vocabulary. In spite of the injury to this vital member, he is again planning to take his place in the world.

Even a girl has no use for the other side of a mirror.

PALESTINE AIRMENGIVE FIRST EXHIBITION

JERUSALEM, June 27.—Palestine has held its first aerial pageant. Familiar for a dozen years or more with the airplanes of the French, only today has Palestine brought together its own force of flying machines.

Twenty airplanes took part in the recent exhibition, 16 with Rolls Royce engines of 275 horse power, seating two persons, and four with Liberty engines of 400 horse power. The latter are fitted with wireless, and seat 12 persons. Each team for the relay race, with which the exhibition opened, consisted of one Avro, one Bristol and one De Havilland.

A "bifurcated" aerial combat between two Bristol fighters was the second event, and was followed by the Bristol race over a triangular course of 27 miles round Ras-el-Ain castle and Jaffa, from each of which stations progress was reported by wireless.

Balloon hunts, in which one airplane is attacked by five balloons from different parts of the aerodrome, and bombing and machine-gun attacks, were also features of the pageant.
